

Notary deed for couples in cohabitation

The Austrian Reproductive Medicine Act states special provisions for unmarried couples living in cohabitation. These couples need to have a notary deed for the settlement of parenthood drawn up for treatments with insemination or in-vitro fertilisation (IVF). Further information on the legal basis can be found by scanning the QR code.

Important information

- A valid notary deed has to be present at the start of treatment.
- A treatment cannot be conducted in case of a missing or expired notary deed (no exceptions)!
- Please note that the notary deed has a validity of two years as regulated by law.
- The notary deed as an original or notarial certified copy stays at the Kinderwunschzentrum an der Wien.
- For foreign citizens: in some cases, special legal provisions according to the law of your home country have to be drawn up. Additionally, without sufficient German language skills a court translator is required. Both issues can lead to further costs and longer waiting periods, please let your notary know in good time!

What next?

1. Please make an appointment with a notary in Austria. You will need your photo ID cards or passports for this appointment.
2. Send the completed and signed consent form on the back page to your notary. This allows the advance transmission of the notary deed to us via e-mail.
3. Optional: If you require interpretation according to the law of your home country or a translator, please let the notary know this in advance.
4. Please bring the original copy of the notary deed to your next appointment at the Kinderwunschzentrum an der Wien.
